DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 9 January 2009 has been entered.

Claims 1 and 3 have been amended. New claims 7-10 have been added.

2. Claims 1-10 are pending and under consideration.

Rejections Withdrawn

3. The rejection of claims 1-6 under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being incomplete for omitting essential steps, is withdrawn in light of the amendment of the claims.

4. The rejection of claim 3 and 6 under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, scope of enablement for methods of diagnosis of any/all other mycobacterial diseases and infections using only a single antigen from any/all mycobacteria, is withdrawn in light of the amendment of the claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

5. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Art Unit: 1645

6. Claims 1-3, 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being incomplete for omitting essential elements, such omission amounting to a gap between the elements. See MPEP § 2172.01. The omitted elements are: addition of specific antigens which would induce the claimed cell-mediated immunological reactions.

The instant claims are drawn to a diagnostic method for paratuberculosis (claims 1, 2 and 5) or any mycobacterial disease (claims 3 and 6) comprising collecting blood, adding an anti-IL10 antibody while inducing a CMI reaction against paratuberculosis or other mycobacterium, and measuring the amount of interferon-gamma present in the blood of infected versus control animals.

The missing element is the stimulus which induces said CMI reaction.

7. Claims 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claims are drawn to a CMI mediated diagnostic method for tuberculosis, utilizing the methods of claim 3. Claim 3 recites comparing the interferon-gamma results between an infected subject and a non-infected control subject.

It is unclear what subjects are considered "non-infected" in the claimed methods considering that subjects may be vaccinated with BCG. In the case of the BCG vaccinated subjects, is the amount of interferon-gamma different than in individuals noninfected and nonvaccinated?

8. Claims 9 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Art Unit: 1645

The claims are drawn to the method of claim 3, wherein said mycobacterial disease is leprosy and the antigen is lepromin.

Porcelli et al (U.S. Pat. No. 5,679,347, 21 October 1997) teach that cell-mediated immune response to lepromin may not occur because during a leprosy infection there is three phases, one of which results in a negative lepromin test (col. 9, lines 14-30).

Thus, it is unclear how one obtains a positive diagnosis by the instant methods in this phase of a leprosy infection.

9. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claim is drawn to the method of claim 1 wherein the CMI induction is by addition of soluble antigen obtained "by" heat-killed M. avium subsp. paratuberculosis to said collected blood.

It is unclear what is meant by antigen obtained "by" heat-killing the bacterium.

Conclusion

10. No claims are allowed.
